MEMORANDUM FOR MEMBERS OF THE REVIEW COMMITTEE ON UNDERGROUND NUCLEAR TESTS

SUBJECT: VELA UNIFORM Underground Nuclear Test in Alaska

This is to record the fact that on March 8, 1965, the Review Committee on Underground Nuclear Tests, established by NSAM No. 307, considered the proposal contained in a memorandum dated February 25, 1965, from the Deputy Secretary of Defense to me, that a VELA UNIFORM underground nuclear test (known as LONG SHOT) be conducted in Alaska during the fourth quarter of 1965.

The agencies represented on the Review Committee concurred in the test from the standpoint of scientific research and its probable bearing on future test ban negotiations. The Committee noted that the Bureau of the Budget, although concurring in the desirability of the test, has raised a question as to whether the benefits are worth the increased costs as now estimated and will review the financial aspects of the proposed test with the Department of Defense.

The Committee also noted that the Department of Defense intended to give public notice and explanation of the test sufficiently in advance of the event to alert other countries and specifically the scientists and seismologists of other countries.

The Committee also noted that the event would be coordinated closely with the Department of State, ACDA, and the White House with respect to the actual date for the event to ensure that a last minute political judgment is exercised prior to the conduct of the experiment, and that the Department of Defense had indicated that the project could be postponed without adverse affect at any time up until the device has been put in place.
